Contents

List of abbreviations .......................................................... iii

1. Introduction ........................................................................... 1
   1.1 Problem definition and objectives ...................................... 1
   1.2 Structure of the thesis .................................................... 2

2. Organizational development of inter-enterprise quality and health management in the meat industry ...................... 4
   2.1 Tasks and participants in inter-enterprise health management ................................................................. 4
   2.1.1 Organizational structures of the pork chain and sector-specific features ............................................. 4
   2.1.2 Demand for services and necessary structures in inter-enterprise health management ........................... 7
   2.1.3 Service offers within the framework of quality management programs as well as regional initiatives ... 11
   2.2 Principles and methods of quality management regarding coordinating service organizations .................. 14
   2.2.1 Principles and methods of quality management .......................................................... 14
   2.2.2 Demand for methodical support in inter-enterprise health management ................................................. 21
   2.2.3 Methodical support in inter-enterprise health management ......................................................... 22
   2.3 Methods for representing and evaluating empirically researched correlations ........................................... 24
   2.3.1 Methodical and theoretical approach to structural equation models .................................................. 24
   2.3.2 The Kano model .......................................................... 32

3. Methods and procedures ..................................................... 37
   3.1 Selection of test enterprises and experts .............................. 39
   3.2 Written survey to estimate customer expectations .............. 41
   3.3 Survey of experts on service offers provided by network coordinators ...................................................... 47
   3.3.1 Recording the extent of coordination tasks with sector-specific service providers ................................ 49
   3.3.2 Determining the degree of popularity of quality management methods with network coordinators ....... 50
   3.3.3 Classification of network coordinators according to their coordination services offered as well as their quality management competence ........................................... 52
   3.4 Formulation of a proposal for further development of coordination services ............................................ 53
   3.5 Structural analysis to assess the quality of coordination services ............................................................ 53

4. Differences and similarities in application of preventive quality management methods in inter-enterprise health management ........................................ 54
   4.1 Customer expectations regarding coordination services .... 54
   4.1.1 Structural model to describe the relationship of latent variables ....................................................... 54
   4.1.2 Demand for coordination services ................................ 60
   4.2 Service offers of network coordinators .............................. 67
   4.2.1 Project activities for further development of coordination services ................................................... 68
4.2.2 Project activities to implement quality management (QM) methods
4.2.3 Relationship between experience with team-oriented quality management (QM) methods and coordination services

5. Concept of combining preventive quality management methods in service organizations
   5.1 Ranking of customer requirements and service offers
   5.2 Essentials of preventive quality management (QM) methods in service organizations
   5.3 Proposal for further development of coordination services

6. Model for assessing the quality of coordination services

7. Summary

References

List of figures

List of tables